Paragoombas are Goombas that have small wings protruding from either their head or torso. Just like Koopa Paratroopas, they jump up and down and shed their wings and change into their regular form upon being stomped on the head. Paragoombas are simply the winged versions of Gloombas, and as such are found primarily in dark, dank areas like Toad Town Tunnels. If they are jumped on they will turn into a Gloomba just like if a Paragoomba was jumped on, it would be a Goomba. Paragoombas are a type of winged Goomba in the Super Mario Series. They are known for dropping Micro-Goombas on Mario. Paragoombas appear in Super Mario MHL as playable characters. Paragoombas are Goombas with wings. It is a common type, and the most common Goomba type right after the wingless Goombas themselves. They are defeated in the exact same way and can either hop on the ground or actually fly.
